

The Gift

3C Windy Wong

Some people like shopping and buying gifts for their beloved friends. However I think it is very troublesome and time-consuming. Also, I don't like receiving gifts from friends for they always do it on purpose and expect that I will do the same to them.

I have a friend who likes cars very much. One day, she told me that her birthday was coming. In fact, I didn't want to buy her anything, but an idea came up suddenly. I told her I had bought a gift which she had expected for a long time.

On the day of her birthday, I brought the gift to the birthday party. The gift was wrapped with beautiful coloured paper. As she approached, she stared at the gift and was eager to open it.

After singing the birthday song, she opened the gifts immediately. I opened it for her with a tricky voice, 'A car...nation? A carnation for you!'

All the people in the party burst into laughter.
